NATURAL STONE
CARE & MAINTENANCE

BASIC MAINTENANCE

CLEANING

Use lukewarm water and a pH- neutral cleaner for regular cleaning. To avoid streaks, it is recommended to wipe the surface with a damp chamois. In the event of a spill, clean up the area immediately and with care to prevent it from spreading. After cleaning the spill, thoroughly rinse it with water to remove any residue.

CLEANING PRODUCTS

Abrasive cleaners such as powders or pastes like Jiff, should be avoided as they can potentially scratch the stone.

PERIODIC MAINTENANCE

It is recommend applying a high-quality saturation sealer annually for granite, dolomite and quartzite surfaces. For marble or limestone, more frequent sealing may be necessary. For specific guidance on the required frequency of sealing, Lavistone recommends consulting your stonemason or a stone specialist for personalised advice.

STONE CLADDING AND FLOORING

Stone cladding and flooring should be cleaned regularly with a dry dust mop. Sand and dirt can cause significant damage to the stone surface due to their abrasiveness.

STONE CARE ESSENTIALS

- Using coasters under all glasses is ideal, especially for alcoholic drinks, lemon, wine, and orange juice, as these high-acid products can damage the stone.

- Place mats should be used when placing hot cookware on the stone surface, as sudden and extreme temperature changes can cause permanent damage to benchtops.

- Always use a chopping board when cutting.

- Take care with heavy pots and pans, as dropping them on a natural stone surface can cause damage.
